$80,000 Spent to Repair Borough's Roads in 1949; Can't See Repairs for the Holes

The borough spent $80,194 for materials and wages to patch and repair the town's roads in 1949, but after several weeks of winter weather and heavy rains, some of the streets are just as bad as they ever were. At Wilson and Keim streets (top photo), Bruce Lessig measures one of the deeper ruts, while his neighbor, George Taglieber, looks sadly at the rutted intersection. The Prospect and

Streets Fixed in '49, Full of Holes Again

Borough highway crews have been busy patching streets onto which the highway department poured much of the $130,000 it spent the past year.

The amount spent in 1949 for patching, repairing and new street construction was $129,194, a check of borough books showed. Of this money, $62,232 was spent to meet payrolls.

The tentative budget for 1950, incidentally, calls for total highway operation and maintenance expenditures of only $47,500, which would not be enough even to meet the payrolls.

Since the beginning of 1950 the highway crews have been on a curtailed schedule. Even on this basis, total wages, including those of the highway superintendent, would be nearly $48,000 this year.

Since this is the amount tentatively allocated for all highway operation and maintenance work for 1950, where the money for materials and equipment rental is to come from is a part of the complex financial problem facing council's finance committee.

Of the money spent on street work the past year, $80,194 was spent on patching and repairing and $49,000 on new construction. These figures include wages.

But many of the streets repaired within the past year are being patched again, as cold weather and unseasonal rains have helped to put holes in the roadways.

Four of the worst spots in the borough were photographed yesterday by The Mercury.

TWO ARE IN the center of town, at the King and Charlotte and King and Franklin streets intersections. Here, numerous ruts, averaging three and four inches in depth, give the motorists and their cars a bad time.

In the North End, the Prospect and Hanover streets intersection has become so rutted that many drivers are detouring over other roads rather than bounce across the holes. And at Wilson and Keim streets the intersection is pitted with holes that wreck cars' springs and motorists' tempers.

TO PAY FOR the highway program, a $100,000 general street improvement bond issue was floated in 1949. This has been all but exhausted, however, leaving council again with the problem of raising money to do street work.

Police Round Up Truckload of Loot

The story of two sets of rabbits symbolized the problems faced yesterday by State, township and borough police who were trying to untangle the snarl left by a five-member gang that committed so many small crimes in the past few months that it couldn't remember them all.

Police began questioning the quintet and recovering part of the loot Thursday. By late yesterday afternoon, they had recovered a small truckload of it and also established definitely that the five had committed at least 50 burglaries in three counties.

The five were James W. Halterman, 37, Chester Springs RD; John C. Troop, 18, Elverston RD 1, and three Chester county youths, one 15; the other two, 16.

The gang took rabbits on two occasions from pens near Royersford, an officer on the case disclosed yesterday. The first two were pedigreed white Angora rabbits worth about $40.

The burglars cut up these prizes and had a $40 dinner.

THEY ALSO TOOK six ordinary rabbits, worth only a few dollars. The gang kept most of them alive. One ordinary rabbit rewarded them by giving birth to five more ordinary rabbits.

After two days of questioning the burglars, trying to find out just what they really did take and what they did with it, an officer on the case said yesterday:

"You want to know what's going on in this case? I'm going nuts." The hearing for the two adults scheduled for last night was postponed because police still were checking to make sure they had uncovered as many burglaries as possible.

NORTH COVENTRY Police Chief Daniel W. Guldin, Collegeville State Trooper Donald C. Bearcraft and Devon State Trooper James Coll led efforts yesterday that brought the total of loot recovered to a small truckload.

Halterman and Troop were lodged in Chester County prison, (Continued on Page Three)

Mental Tests Ordered For Hill School Pupil

By Staff Correspondent

NORRISTOWN, Feb. 17—William Alexander Scott, 17, Shaker Heights, Ohio, who set three fires at The Hill in Pottstown that did $22,000 damage was sent today to Pennsylvania institute, Philadelphia, for psychiatric study and observation.

This action was ordered by Judge E. Arnold Forrest after a brief hearing in juvenile court.

Sgt. Charles W. Taylor, arson investigator for State police, brought out at the hearing that The Hill is being repaid for the $22,000 damage by the boy's father, A. C. Scott, vice president of Apex Electric company, Cleveland.

No final disposition of the boy's case will be made until a report is received from psychiatrists at the institute. Judge Forrest released the 17-year-old in the custody of his attorney, Carroll L. Rutter, who immediately took him to the institute.

Sgt. Taylor said, "I don't think Bill did it with any intent to commit a crime. He didn't like the stage set-up and took that means (fire) to destroy it so a new and better one could be erected."

THE INVESTIGATOR said the boy submitted detailed recommendations for a new stage after the first fire, having prepared plans and a model stage in the school's (Continued on Page Nine)

Youth Is Sentenced To Whitehill School For Store Burglary

By Staff Correspondent

NORRISTOWN, Feb. 17—Robert Castrinoes, 18, of 555 Water street, began an indeterminate sentence in Pennsylvania Industrial school, Whitehill, today, apparently no wiser from the experiences of two of his brothers.

Sentence was imposed today by Judge E. Arnold Forrest after the youth pleaded guilty to burglarizing the grocery store of Harvey H. Prince, 601 Water street, of $14 in cash plus a handful of merchandise early the morning of Feb. 3.

Only a week earlier, on Jan. 27, his brother, Louis, 34, was sentenced to 10 to 20 years in Eastern State Penitentiary for a string of burglaries. The memory of the sentence had not dimmed, the boy admitted, (Continued on Page Nine)

Autoist Slightly Injured As Car, Hearse Collide

A 1929 hearse was damaged extensively and a Schwenkville man injured slightly in a collision on Sanatoga Hill along Route 422 yesterday morning at 5:20 o'clock.

The black hearse was driven by William K. Taglieber, 56, Sanatoga, who bought it several years ago when a Bechtelsville man closed his funeral parlor. Taglieber converted it into a passenger car to haul both people and supplies for the beagles he raises.

Mrs. Taglieber said the family has been happier with the 1929 vehicle than with the 1948 sedan they formerly owned. Injured in the collision was Elmer Krause, 27, Game Farm road, Schwenkville, whose 1948 sedan rammed the back of the hearse. Krause was treated in Memorial hospital's dispensary for bruises over the right eye and a laceration of the nose.

KRAUSE TOLD Collegeville State Troopers Raymond H. Miller and I. Frank Clemens that he was driving west on Route 422 when the hearse made a left turn onto the highway from Brown road, atop the western side of the hill.

Krause apparently could not decide on which side he should pass the hearse, which has an absolutely top speed of 40 miles per hour. In his indecision, and perhaps confusion at seeing a solitary hearse at 5:20 a. m., Krause rammed the rear of the old hearse.

Taglieber was thrown toward the rear of his converted hearse when the front seat was snapped off by the impact. The old vehicle was towed away to a Sanatoga garage. (Continued on Page Nine)

Stowe Mail Service Reorganized to Meet Rail Schedule Cuts

Re-organizing the delivery of Stowe's mail, dislocated the past Saturday by the dropping of trains from the Reading company's schedule, has been accomplished but the mail necessarily will continue to be delivered two hours later than usual.

This was reported yesterday by Charles Q. Flickinger, Stowe postmaster, who had to change his staff's entire schedule to compensate for the missing trains.

Prime difficulty was that the first mail in the morning arrived at 8:09 o'clock, instead of on the 5:40 train, one of those cut in Saturday's reduction.

The 5:40 o'clock stopped at Stowe and discharged all kinds of mail. Now a "special messenger" (Flickinger) has been authorized to travel to the Pottstown station to pick up the Stowe mail discharged at Pottstown.

OUTGOING HEAVY mail formerly was sent on the 4:47 p. m. train to Philadelphia. Flickinger said. Now it is sent on the 5:30 p. m. (Continued on Page Nine)

15 Are Reported Killed In Collision of Trains

ROCKVILLE, CENTRE, N. Y., Feb. 17 (AP)—Two crowded Long Island railroad trains crashed head-on here tonight and first reports listed from five to 15 persons killed.

An unidentified trainman at the scene told newsmen the death toll might reach 50.

Rockville Centre police said only one death officially was verified thus far.

They estimated the injured at 100 or more. Scores of injured were rushed to Long Island hospitals in this area. Every doctor in the vicinity was mobilized for emergency duty.

Two Apply for Job of Dog Catcher; Griffith Awaits Answer of Leidy Fritz

Two persons have applied to Burgess William A. Griffith for the job of borough dog catcher, the Burgess disclosed last night.

"I haven't discussed the details of the job with them yet," Griffith added.

The Burgess still is awaiting an answer from Leidy Fritz, dog catcher until a year ago.

When Griffith asked Fritz several days ago to take the job again, Fritz asked for at least a week to think it over.

"I expect to speak to him again the early part of the week," Griffith declared. He pointed out that Fritz had injured his back recently, but hoped the former dog catcher would take the job again in spite of that.

Three Co-Defendants of American Plead Guilty in Hungary Spy Trial

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 17 (AP)—A Briton and two Hungarians pleaded guilty today to charges of sabotage and spying for the West in a ring the government declared was led by American defendant Robert A. Vogeler.

The court skipped over Vogeler, No. 3 on the list of seven prisoners, in calling for pleas although the government announced soon after his arrest, Nov. 18, that he had confessed.

Vogeler, 38, is an assistant vice-president and Eastern European representative of the International Telephone and Telegraph company. He spoke but briefly in court. Asked whether he had received and studied a translation of the indictment, he answered "yes."

The U. S. State department charged in Washington that Hungary's Communist government decided in advance to convict Vogeler. A formal statement by the department also raised the question of whether Vogeler has been "subjected to coercion by intimidation, lack of food, drugging or other forms of mistreatment" during the three months he has been held incommunicado.

All the prisoners appeared to be in good physical condition. They include a Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. Istvan Justh, and a barmaid with freshly waved hair, "Baroness" Edina Doery. The men wore dark business suits; the woman a black coat.

Guilty pleas were entered in succession by Imre Geiger, white-haired Hungarian director of the Standard Electric works, a now nationalized subsidiary of the IT & T; Zoltan Rado, a section chief under the Hungarian ministry of heavy trade; and Edgar Sanders, British accountant of the Standard company.

They were Nos. 1, 2 and 4 on the list in the court, where Josef Cardinal Mindszenty was sentenced the past year to a life term on treason charges. The presiding judge and the prosecutor were those who served in the Mindszenty case.

"Do you feel guilty?" Presiding Judge Vilmos Olthy asked in the traditional form as the prisoners were called up.

The standard reply in each case was: "I do."

EACH OF THE THREE referred to American or British officials or agencies in connection with their purported "subversive machinations, spying and sabotage against the Hungarian people."

The government contends the group sought to obtain secret information on Hungarian economic and military affairs, cut down Hungary's industrial production, drive a wedge between Hungary and Soviet Russia. Vogeler is accused of having been "a spy since 1942."

Vogeler's Belgian-born wife dismissed the accusation at her home in Vienna with the declaration: "Bob was doing war work in Chicago in 1942. He did not come to Europe until 1945. Who was he supposed to be spying on in Chicago?"

More Allied Workers Are Laid Off Because Of Coal Strike Crisis

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 17 (AP)—Coal shortages dealt new sharp blows to the nation's economy today as striking bituminous miners waited with grim patience for outcome of peace talks.

Here are the day's highlights outside of Washington as the government drove hard for a strike ending contract agreement between mine owners and John L. Lewis:

Guardsmen Use 'Ducks' to Save Flood Victims

MARKSVILLE, La., Feb. 17 (AP)—National Guardsmen, manning amphibious "ducks" churned surrounding swamps and bayous to snatch lowland residents from the path of swelling floods today.

Other Guardsmen pitched a tent settlement on a high knoll in this nearly isolated town of 2,000, situated between the swollen Red and Atchafalaya rivers and a Mississippi river marsh choked with backwater.

Brig. Gen. Raymond F. Hufft of the National Guard warned Marksville residents this morning they may be isolated completely in a few days.

Mayor D. M. Riddle Jr., who heads an all-veteran town government and is also captain of the Marksville National Guard company said 300 tents are being erected and sanitary facilities provided for that many families believed to be in the surrounding lowland.

About 40 families have already come to Marksville, he said.

GENERAL HUFFT reported his National Guardsmen and a Coast Guard team had about finished evacuating the lowlands in the vicinity of Jonesville, La., where a settlement of 475 tents has sprung up.

Jonesville also finished plugging the gaps in its protection levee today expected to save it from any serious damage.

Hufft said Jonesville would probably have door step high water but would not have to be evacuated.

He also ordered guardsmen to bring residents of the low ground around Ferriday to safety.

The first week in March was expected to mark highwater throughout the flooded valleys, and there appeared little hope of the water draining before the latter part of March.

Judy Drops Her Attorney, Judge Names 3 Alternates

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Judith Coplon switched lawyers today in the middle of her spy conspiracy trial.

At her request, Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan assigned three attorneys to replace stubby, excitable Archibald Palmer, who defended the ex-government girl in a stormy Washington trial and in weeks of sometimes hectic court proceedings here.

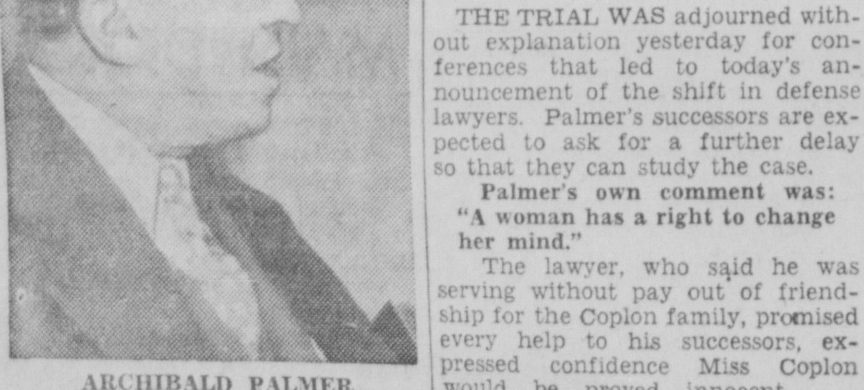

Named to succeed Palmer were Samuel Neuberger, Sidney E. Berman and Leonard Boudin. The court acted because Miss Coplon has taken the pauper's oath.

Miss Coplon, 28, has been on trial since Jan. 24 with 33-year-old Valentin A. Gubitchev, a Russian engineer. They are accused of plotting to pass U. S. defense secrets to the Soviet Union.

THE TRIAL WAS adjourned without explanation yesterday for conferences that led to today's announcement of the shift in defense lawyers. Palmer's successors are expected to ask for a further delay so that they can study the case.

Palmer's own comment was: "A woman has a right to change her mind."

The lawyer, who said he was serving without pay out of friendship for the Coplon family, promised every help to his successors, expressed confidence Miss Coplon would be proved innocent.

Winnie Again Asks East-West Talks in British Election Fight

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Winston Churchill tonight defended his plea for a new try at East-West understanding.

Churchill broadcast the last Conservative party radio campaign speech on time allotted by BBC. This was the highlight of the day's campaign oratory. Prime Minister Clement Attlee spent most of the day working on his speech for tomorrow's final broadcast by the Labor government.

However, the prime minister, who returned yesterday from an arduous 1200-mile automobile tour of the nation, found time to address two gatherings in his London constituency.

The election is Thursday.

During a speech at West Walthamstow, Attlee said he will discuss Churchill's suggestion on negotiations with Russia in his broadcast tomorrow. He made the statement in reply to a question from the floor.

Another questioner asked whether he and Mrs. Attlee could live on an old age pension of two guineas ($5.88) a week. His reply was: "Yes, but it depends on what standard."

CHURCHILL ANGRILY rejected a contention by Labor leaders that his excursion into the international scene during his Tuesday night Edinburgh address was a campaign "stunt."

In that speech he called for East-West talks at the "highest level" to "bridge the gulf between the two worlds."

Churchill defended the propriety of bringing up methods for handling East-West differences during the campaign. He said:

"Is that not the one time of all others when they (the voters) should think about that? The only time that the people really have a chance to influence and, in fact, decide, events is at a general election."

CHURCHILL DISCOUNTED United Nations reliance on the United Nations as the place where international discussions should take place, saying:

"We all support the great ideals of world government, but the United Nations cannot function while it is rent asunder by the conflicting fears of the two worlds which are ranged against each other."

"It is only by the agreement of the greatest powers that security can be given to ordinary folk against the annihilating war with atomic or hydrogen bombs or bacteriological horrors."

"I cannot find it in my heart and conscience to close the door upon that hope."

TRIO OF ROBBERS GET $40,000 IN BANK HOLD-UP

Unmasked Bandits Flee In Car From Scene in North End of Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—A three-man team of bank robbers stole an estimated $40,000 at gunpoint today from a branch bank at the northern tip of Washington, near the Maryland border.

A preliminary check by the bank showed that $25,000 of the loot was in one-dollar bills.

The hold-up men escaped in a dark four-door sedan. An automobile containing empty money bags was found abandoned in the northern section of the capital and was towed to police headquarters for fingerprint examination.

Bank employees said none of the robbers wore masks.

Shortly before noon, two of the men entered the Hamilton National bank's Shepherd Park branch. They left a third at the wheel of the getaway car.

One of the men entered the bank remained near the door. The other leveled an automatic pistol at H. R. Bauckman, the bank manager, announcing:

"This is a stickup. Let's have it."

HE HERDED the manager and Herman Sikorra, a teller, into a back room where a watchman was wrapping small change. Another teller, Miss Margaret A. Slifer, was in a restroom getting ready to go to lunch. No customers were in the bank.

The intruder began throwing bills into a tan suitcase. He took a little time to decide whether to take a sack of nickels or one of dimes. He finally chose the dimes—about $800 worth.

The gunman warned the employees: "Stay here for five minutes," then joined his companion at the door and walked to the car.

One of the two hold-up men who went into the bank was described as six feet tall, 165 pounds, about 38 years old, wearing a brown topcoat and a gray hat.

The other was said to be about five feet 10, 170 pounds, and about 30 years old. Bank employees said one of the men was referred to as "Red."

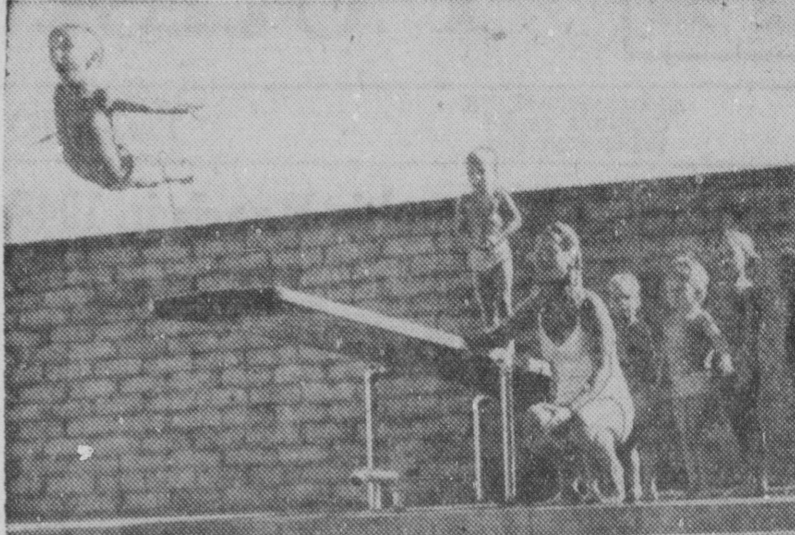

The FBI joined city police in investigating the robbery.

Wilmer Waller, president of the Hamilton National, said the Shepherd Park branch has no burglar alarm. The loss was insured, he said.

Pilot Subdues Wild Woman On Chartered Plane Ride

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—A wild "kiss and kick" battle between a statuesque blonde and the co-pilot of a chartered New York-to-Florida plane flying at 3,000 feet was reported to police here today.

Co-pilot T. C. Sallee, 32, who flew with the late Bill Odom on a round-the-world trip, said the struggle lasted 15 minutes and threatened to send the plane crashing out of control.

Finally, the pilot, K. H. Dubanovich, turned the plane back on its south-bound flight and made a shaky, unscheduled landing at Washington national airport.

The blonde was identified by a driver's license as Miss Willie Jane Frost, 38, of Coral Gables, Fla., and Los Angeles. She was taken to a hospital in nearby Alexandria, Va.

Co-pilot Sallee said the woman chartered the plane in New York for a trip to Miami. She slept most of the time during the first part of the trip, but about 10 minutes south of Washington she woke up hysterical. Sallee said she began kicking the back of his seat facing the controls.

"SHE REACHED AROUND my neck and pulled me back. Then she started kissing me," he said.

"I saw a chance to grab her hands when she started kicking at the windows, but I couldn't hold on. Finally I managed to get into the rear seat and hold her down but she kept kicking and struggling."

"She asked me if I loved her," Sallee said, "and hoping to quiet her, I would say, 'Madly...'"

"That seemed to quiet her for a while, but then she would start in again. She was throwing herself all over the plane, trying to open windows, trying to grab the wheel, trying to open the door."

SALLEE SAID HE feared her struggles and wild lunges in the little plane would throw it out of control as they came in for a landing.

"It was an anxious moment," he said.

The co-pilot said when it became apparent that the woman could not be subdued, Pilot Dubanovich signalled the Washington airport tower to have an ambulance waiting.

His message read:

"Have malfunctioning passenger aboard. Have police and ambulances standing by. Am going to land."

STORM STALLS SEARCH FOR FIVE IN B36 CREW

Hope Fades for Rescue Of Airman From Rugged Prince Royal Island

McCHORD AIR BASE, Wash., Feb. 17 (AP)—A return of winter weather today hampered the search for five men missing from an abandoned air force B36.

Their chances of survival on rugged Prince Royal Island, on the British Columbia coast, lessened by the hour—if they survived their parachute jumps during Monday night.

The other 12 men who leaped from the plane have been rescued from the heavily wooded island.

Meanwhile, a nine-member board of inquiry to investigate the crash was selected at Carswell Air base, Ft. Worth. First session of the board was set for tomorrow.

Maj. Gen. Joseph Atkinson, commanding general of the 2nd Air Force, Barksdale Field, Shreveport, La., was named president.

THE WEATHER CLOSED in along the coastal region after hopes for the missing men had been buoyed by new clues. They were a blood-spattered patch in the snow, where a man apparently had fallen; an SOS stamped in the snow, and paracutes.

The clues were sighted yesterday, a Canadian navy spokesman reported from Esquimalt, B. C. Darkness last night prevented a pursuit of the clues immediately.

There was a chance the signs had been left by some of the men already rescued.

Today's storm included snow, rain and winds up to 40 and 50 miles an hour.

A promise of better weather was in the offing for tomorrow.

A grim picture of conditions on the island came today from the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Winona. It had two 12-man search teams ashore. Other searching parties also were on the island.

THE WINONA REPORT described the island as mountainous, with heavy underbrush in the thick timber. Fallen logs are covered with snow and ice to make travel a terrific job for the men who were in their fourth day without food, warmth or dry clothing.

Occasional open areas were covered with eroded snow, sometimes waist deep.

There are many small lakes between ridges.

The weather kept search planes grounded.

Nine crew members flew today to their home base at Fort Worth, Tex.

One injured crew member, S. Sgt. Vitale Trippodi of Brooklyn, remained in a hospital here. His condition was reported as "satisfactory."

Arrival of the 12th rescued man, Lt. Charles C. Pooler, 36, of Beloit, Kas., was delayed because of flying conditions.

Brotherhood Week Panel Speakers to Be Selected Soon

The five participants in the Brotherhood week panel discussion on Sunday, Feb. 26, will be announced in the near future.

The four men and one woman who will discuss "We Fought Together, Why Can't We Live in Peace?" all will be ex-GIs representing Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths and the Negro race.

The discussion, to be held in the Senior High school auditorium, will be open to the public. It will be the fourth year the event has been presented locally.

THE POTTSTOWN HIGH school band and glee club will furnish music. George D. Robins, president of the Pottstown school board, will be moderator of the panel.

In addition to Robins, other members of the committee are Mrs. Alex V. Tisdale, executive secretary of the YWCA, Rabbi Emil Schorsch, of Mercy and Truth synagog, and the Rev. John B. Frantz, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

affected were those on the one block of Charlotte street and a few on High street, including the Strand theater and B. E. Block and Brothers Furniture store.

While digging for the leak, borough workmen discovered some unexploded lead lines that had been left open. "These could have caused us some trouble later on," Sears asserted. Borough workmen caused them shut.

Much more serious was the split in a 16-inch water main under Wilson street, west of Warren street, that left hundreds of North End homes with lowered water pressure Thursday morning and early afternoon.

The split was fixed by mid-afternoon and the water situation in the area bounded by Hanover, East and Adams streets and by the north borough line was back to normal yesterday.

LOOT RECOVERED —

West Chester, to await a hearing today. The three juveniles were turned over to Chester county juvenile court authorities.

Police plan to sort the loot over the weekend and begin efforts to notify owners of missing articles.

TWO SPECIAL DIFFICULTIES confront police on the job. In some cases, the original burglaries were not reported or not even discovered. And police are not sure that the burglars' memories have not become confused by too much activity.

In addition to rabbits, the gang took a wide variety of articles, most worth only a few dollars, including auto accessories, a bicycle, blankets and turkeys.

On the job with Guldin, Beacraft and Coll were Sgt. James Brennan, Devon barracks; Boyertown Police Chief Henry E. Croft; Motor Patrolman Harry G. Chrusch and Plainclothesman Harold E. Hahn, Pottstown, and Phoenixville Chief Fred K. MacInnes.

Ambulance Crew Revives Man Who Collapsed

William Bowker, about 70, was recuperating at his home, 323 Chestnut street, late last night, after collapsing while standing at the bar of the Washington House, King and Washington streets, at 10:45 p. m.

Patrons said Bowker had had only one beer at the place. When wet towels failed to revive him, the Good Will ambulance was called. William Tosto and Joseph Koren, ambulance attendants, gave artificial respiration to the victim. He was examined at Pottstown hospital and sent home.

Employment Drops In Metal Industries; Textile Jobs Increase

An increase of jobs in Pottstown's textile industry was not sufficient to combat the decrease in employment in the metal industries during January, it was reported yesterday by Catherine A. Coyne, manager of the local Pennsylvania State Employment service office.

"There has been some utilization of new workers in the metal industries," she said in the monthly report, "but the results have been insignificant, since a greater part of the employers in this industry still have personnel furloughed."

The labor market in the garment industry continued to be "static," she asserted, adding, "There is no indication of imminent relief of this condition."

SHE REPORTED, "The need for workers in the metal industry, which utilizes the greatest number of employees, is at a minimum except for occasional replacements and requests are usually for skilled persons."

Employers are reluctant to reduce their requests that workers have rather extensive experience and education by accepting workers with related skills, Miss Coyne said.

Current needs are mostly for sewing-machine operators, she continued, and they frequently are difficult to fill because of the location of many plants using them.

THERE ARE MORE THAN 2100 active registrations on file in the Pottstown office, she asserted. The coal shortage and the lag in deliveries of some steel orders has handicapped local employers, she said, although the transportation-equipment industry has "indicated a greater expansion in employment than any other in the area."

Norco FFA Is Host To Former Members

North Coventry High school's Future Farmers of America were hosts to 11 former members at a meeting in the school on Thursday night.

In a basketball game, the graduates took the members by a 39-38 margin.

Two affairs to raise money for the school's agriculture building were announced.

One is a square dance March 7, sponsored by the Coventry Agriculture association. The other is a roller skating party to be held March 4 at Ringing Rocks park. It will be sponsored by the FFA.

The Thursday night meeting was attended by 33 persons. Donald Lloyd, president, and Neal Burtner, agriculture teacher, were in charge.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1950

Man perfected by society is the best of all animals; he is the most terrible when he lives without law, and without justice.—Aristotle.

Take Federal Aid

WHEN Pottstown hospital directors announced a campaign for funds to enlarge and improve the local institute of mercy, they said the Federal government would provide almost half the funds.

That is right. The Federal government will give 40 percent of the amount raised here to provide the finest modern hospital service for Pottstown.

The assistance will come to Pottstown under the Hospital Survey and Construction Act passed in 1947. The past year, Congress greatly expanded and extended the act so that the chances of Pottstown coming under it were greatly increased.

Already 964 new hospitals and health centers have been put under construction or authorized.

And yet there are some persons who throw cold water on the Pottstown hospital directors' plan to seek Federal aid.

This is the same group of mossbacks who opposed Federal housing aid, and the same group of mossbacks who opposed the Pottstown public schools receiving food subsidies.

The money for extended and expanded hospital service is available in Washington. If Pottstown doesn't take it, some other community will.

Pottstown never will grow, never will become a modern community unless some far-sighted men like the Pottstown hospital directors take advantage of all the opportunities for improvement that arise.

Today's A Birthday

WHEN today's sunshine prompts you to remark to your neighbor: "And the weatherman says tomorrow is going to be much nicer," think of how hard it was to make that sort of conversation the short space of 80 years ago.

In fact, there were no predictions then. For February 18, 1871 is the kind of date it's hard to hark back to. For no weather predictions were made up to that time by the United States government.

There was no "Fair and warmer," or "Cloudy and continued warm," or even "Snow flurries in the mountains."

Not until February 18, 1871, when the government started making daily weather forecasts.

So there were no jokes about the weatherman—how he got rained out at his own picnic, how the weather was even too warm for him, how he was exasperated for failing in his duty to do more about the weather.

There wasn't even a weatherman.

We can only regard it as a dismal interlude in history, about which a kindly veil should be drawn, perhaps one consisting of a light drizzle, turning into sleet by mid-afternoon!

The Big Difference

A NEW insight into the vast difference between a regimented and a free economy was recently given by Paul H. Nystrom, professor of marketing at Columbia university. Dr. Nystrom is an internationally celebrated authority in his field.

"Under a state controlled economy," he said, "or under conditions of absolute monopoly, the burden of negotiation and of effecting exchange falls upon the buyer. The buyer must seek out the sources of supply. He can only buy what is made available to him. He must pay the price that is asked or go without."

"In a competitive economy, such as we have, when there are adequate supplies of goods and conditions are normal, those who have goods to sell, or their representatives, must look up to the customers. . . . The customer is under no obligation to buy. He buys only what he wants. He buys in accordance with his own decisions. The function of selling under these conditions is to stimulate desires, to make it easy for the customer to buy and to persuade. . . . In the months that he ahead business is not likely to go to those who sit and wait for it. It will go to those who go out and get it and earn it."

What this means is that the customer is the boss in our kind of economy. He shops where he pleases. He picks and chooses. He looks for the best service, the lowest price, or some other attraction. His trade must be earned or he will take it elsewhere.

That is the big reason why a free economy produces abundance while controlled economies produce only scarcity.

PUNKIN CORNERS, February 17.
Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:

Wal, I see by the papers where a whisky manufacturer says the best Kentucky bourbon whisky is made from Indiana corn. This could cause another war between the states!

An item reports the discovery in Maryland of a new coal field which, it is estimated, will yield 600 million tons of coal. Fine. But how can we keep the news from John Lewis?

And say: Two college professors say a poker game is a good means of studying human nature. Sounds like an awfully expensive study.

Brotherhood Field Still Fertile Here, He Believes

Only Superficial Treatment

To the Editor: So the community will observe Brotherhood Week. That's fine. We need more brotherhood right here in Pottstown—both in profession of spirit and in the little things that make up our daily lives.

You don't have to go any farther than the columns of our daily newspaper, The Mercury, to see that all's not well among us.

So often we see where the greedy interests of persons or groups are exposed to public view. We read where an individual in position of power tries to grind his heel on those who have little and want only to live as normal human beings.

In our churches, we hear attacks on those who follow the tenets of other faiths.

On our streets, we hear malicious gossip being spread to injure the characters of others.

In our business places, we hear remarks about not wanting the patronage of others because their skin is of a different color.

In the closed circles of our clubs, we pick up the whispers that ostracize certain persons because they are not of the "proper social status."

Oh, yes, I could go on. And they all concern the one thing we call "brotherhood."

Our community is not unique in this respect. In fact, there are many unselfish, right-thinking leaders among us.

WASHINGTON

Truman Aides Reported Sabotaging U. S. Policy

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—Dean Acheson's cup of woe has been full enough and bitter enough of late as a result of public and Congressional complaints against his general handling of foreign problems, especially the Chinese and hydrogen-bomb issues. It would seem that the Secretary of State had been harassed as sufficiently as one man should be by domestic critics.

But for the last few weeks he has had to listen to foreign diplomats' reports, especially the Anglo-Canadian representatives, that his own cabinet associates are quietly sabotaging the Administration's broad program of economic aid to nations overseas.

They named names, and they gave specific instances of where, in their opinion, resort to administrative authority and legislative power had offset Marshall Plan grants, other forms of assistance and even military aid.

COMPLAINTS: In morning appearances before congressional committees, Mr. Acheson listens patiently while senators and representatives warn him that increasing imports are damaging their local industries. In afternoon sessions at the State department, he must try to appease ambassadors and ministers who cite instances where foreign goods have been kept out of this country by administrative rulings.

The Secretary of State has carried these two batches of complaints to the White House, without getting any satisfaction from President Truman.

Although the Chief Executive is wholly sincere in his program for aiding foreign countries, he does not want to antagonize powerful agricultural and industrial groups in the U. S. for political reasons.

INDIFFERENT: The cabinet members listed as unfriendly or indifferent by foreign spokesmen are Secretaries Brannan, Chapman, Sawyer, Snyder, Johnson. With the possible exception of Commerce Secretary Sawyer, these men are quite as politically-minded as Mr. Truman.

Like him, they want to extend help to our World War II allies and to win the "cold war" with Russia. But they do not want to resort to policies that will weaken the Democratic Party or hurt its chances in the 1950 and 1952 elections.

OIL: Secretary Brannan, so the foreign agents inform Mr. Acheson, has invoked his discretionary power to bar the import of Danish butter, Polish hams and various other food specialties from abroad. He is known to be sympathetic to an embargo or higher duty on Canadian potatoes, realizing that this "scandal" tends to discredit the whole price support program.

Secretary Chapman, of Interior, chafes under the economic policy of permitting England to boycott American oil in the sterling market. London's limitation has boosted the flow of foreign oil into the United States, and is causing serious difficulties for small, independent producers.

Mr. Acheson is on record as opposed to Britain's petroleum program, but he has submitted no effective protest.

PROTESTS: Secretary Sawyer's mail is filled with protests from American manufacturers and business men, reciting the damages they have suffered from an increase of imports in their particular lines.

On the other hand, others complain that their business has not improved because of Marshall Plan loans and cheapening of the pound. In short, none of his clients is satisfied.

Secretary Snyder, likewise, has seen no great benefit to the U. S. from all these foreign gifts. British buying over here has not shown the expected increase.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING

For MISS HELEN ANNE KLING, 365 Main street, Pottstown, Pa.
BECAUSE she became engaged recently to Mr. Francis O. Stahl Jr., 420 State street, East Greenville.

The name and complete address of the author must accompany every contribution but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 250 words will receive preference.

An Example for YMCA
To the Editor: I attended a reception at the YMCA one night this week for the newcomers to Pottstown and I can say that, for the first time in the 18 months I've lived here, I felt that I really was welcomed as a member of your community.

Advertising Heart Interests
To the Editor: Reading your very interesting story about the mother who put hearts and initials of her 14-year-old boy's "Valentines" on his necktie revived an old idea I've had.

With this tie, the boy makes it clear to everyone that he has six heart interests. All the girls who see him know where they stand at the start—seventh. Now, my idea is this. Let every man old enough to care wear identification of his romantic status on his tie, and let every woman wear the same thing on some of their articles of clothing.

For instance, on a man's tie there would be some sign—perhaps a double cross—to indicate that the man was going steady but still had his eyes open. Or a girl could have a shrinking violet painted on her blouse to indicate that her arm would have to be twisted before she would accept a date. Or the other type of girl could use the hammer and sickle to show she was communist-minded about men.

The important thing is that there be a universally-accepted set of signs, although some latitude should be permitted so that married men and women could have a little variety. One day their sign would be a ball and chain, for instance; the next day, it could be a chain and ball. BACHELOR

Jottings in Pencil

PRINCE ALI KHAN, in Switzerland, has informed his representatives that "cost doesn't matter" in his campaign to eliminate any possible social barriers that might be erected in the U. S. when he and Rita Hayworth return. Several famous party-givers (professional, that is) will divide the loot. . . . Although British spy Klaus Fuchs' "confession" indicated he received only $400 in payment from the Russians, members of the FBI are convinced he has cashed away a fortune. . . . Judge is having a little whirl with a member of the romantic Rossellini family. . . . A well-known socialite, son of a famous financier, is so broke he's willing to take a job as a day laborer. Had to borrow laundry money last week. . . . Merle Oberon's new consolation is a handsome screen actor with a foreign accent. His name has to be a secret because of "complications."

HOLLYWOOD HAS become wary of making biographical films. Most of them have been profitable, but they invite annoying lawsuits from obscure relatives of the celebrities profiled on film. . . . Elizabeth Taylor has 47 costume changes in her current flicker. (Probably plays a kid from the slums.) . . . Tally Richards, a blonde beauty in the chorus at Copa City, Miami, is showing the girls fiery love letters from Mamoud Pahlavi, brother of the Shah of Iran. They met last December when the Shah's party was visiting the U. S.

Two famous doctors have just come up with a theory that will say George Bernard Shaw. They think they've proven that man wasn't made to eat vegetables—just meat! . . . Whatever happened to Tallulah Bankhead's indignation over the commercial about "Tallulah the Tube"? or was it just a press agent's happy stunt?

THE JERRY WALKERS (she was Pat Quinlan) are living in separate abodes. . . . The Swedish Telephone Co. is reported to have perfected a telephone-video device on which you see the person you ring up. (Excuse me, I was just getting into the shower!) . . . President Truman has ordered a print of "When Willie Comes Marching Home" for a special showing at the White House this week. Gen. Vaughan told him how funny it was. . . .

Sidney Kingsley is huddling with Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse, leading to the rumor that his next show might revolve around them. . . . Mary Kirk Brown, long missing from the local scene, has been getting away from it all at a convalescent retreat in Hartford. . . . Marie Wilson's husband, Allan Nixon, who was attacked and beaten up by two men on his last visit to Gotham, will be subpoenaed by the D. A.'s office here to testify against them.

ROBERT ROSSEN is going to have some competition for his production of "The Brave Bulls." There's another bull-fighting yarn on tap at Metro, "Montes, the Matador," by Frank Harris. Ricardo Montalban, who is dying to play the lead, will undoubtedly get it—it's planned to have Cyd Charisse, beautiful wife of Tony Martin, as his co-star. . . . The Michael Kirby expect their new baby due positively on March 1. . . . Pat O'Brien got a giggle from us telling of overhearing a fading star talking with her manager—and complaining that she is only getting $40,000 for her next picture. "It irks me to take that sum," she said. And the agent answered, "Nice IRK—if you can get it!"

JOHN HERTZ JR., who is now after the heart and hand of Wm. Saroyan's ex, Carol Marcus, is an ex-husband of Myrna Loy's. . . . Joan Leslie has a very good chance of getting the Lydia role in "Quo Vadis." One thing in her favor is that she's known to be a devout Catholic—and with the religious overtones to the picture, the studio wouldn't want to take a chance on any gal who might figure in any sort of scandal during or after its filming. Lookit what happened to "Joan of Arc!"

VALENTINE PARTY—A valentine novelty shower was given Jessie Cloward at her home, 37 Chestnut street. The affair was arranged by members of the Mac-Mar club composed of girl employees of the McClintic-Marshall Construction company.

NEED MILK—A survey of the local schools shows that 285 pupils in the elementary grades and the junior high school are deprived of milk daily because they do not have the pennies to pay for it. The Mercury is starting a milk fund.

GOLDEN WEDDINGS—The following observed their golden wedding events: Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Gabel, of 117 Franklin street, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Pennypacker, of Loag's Corner. Receptions were held in observance of the events.

CONTRACTOR DIES—Harry R. Garner, 57, plumbing contractor for many years, died from pneumonia in a hospital. He resided at 29 West Third street. He was a son of the late Joseph S. Garber.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17—R. K. O. is borrowing Elizabeth Scott from Hal Wallis for the femme lead in "The Wall Outside" which John Houseman starts directing in two weeks. . . . Columbia has signed Viveca Lindfors to a six year contract. Her fine work with Margaret Sullivan in "No Sad Song," just completed, turned the trick. This gal sure had her ups and downs during her three years at Warners—but the future looks bright now. . . . Ricardo Cortez, who was once a romantic star "in the Valentino tradition" gave up acting to direct a bunch of pictures in recent years. Then he dropped "out of the picture" altogether. Now he's returning to acting and will play the heavy in "Bunco Squad," with Bob Sterling and the new comedy find, Joan Dixon. . . . Hear that Pablo Picasso and Salvador Dali are having a tiff. We wish they'd both go paint barns. Their canvases give us an art attack!

Selling Real Estate... Gets His Degree...

★ SELLER — Lester M. Basler, local for 10 years personnel director at Jacobs No. 1 and Spicer's, has joined the selling staff of James J. Moore, Gilbertville realtor. Basler, a graduate of Albright college in 1932, is well known in the Perkiomen valley because his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Basler, operated a Red Hill general store for years. Basler spent 15 years there, then came to Pottstown. The past week he passed State examinations for a real estate license.

He lives on Old Reading road, Douglassville, where he was a Douglass township justice of the peace for six years.

HONORED — Havard E. Fosnocht, principal of the Pottstown elementary schools, realized an ambition the other day when he received his master's degree in education from Temple university, Philadelphia. Fosnocht was among 745 graduates who received degrees. . . . Eugene Lewis Daub, son of Mrs. Marion P. Daub, 1014 Bellevue avenue, has been accepted as a student at Girard college, Philadelphia. . . . Pvt. Matthew Thomas Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Thomas, Pottstown RD 3, is receiving amphibious training with his Ft. Benning, Ga., Army outfit at Little Creek, Va.

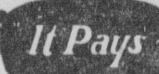

★ GOLFERS—Three local golfers joined 30 from the Reading Country club in a four-day jaunt to Pinehurst, N. C. The journey is an annual affair of a group called the "Par-Busters." Local divot diggers on the trip are B. Frank Christman, High street insurance man; Adolph Wilke, Bechtelsville, local furniture man, and Winfield A. West, Boyertown trucker. . . . Send birthday greetings Sunday to Nancy Dalgleish, the spastic who all helped a few years ago. Her address is 49 East Main street, South Pottstown. She can use a little cheering up. . . . Ash Wednesday will be coming up next week. It falls on February 22, which is earlier than last (March 2), but later than in 1948 (Feb. 11). Ash Wednesday ushers in 40 days of Lent.

It is estimated that a horse eats food from enough land to feed four people.

Warehouse, Tavern Destroyed by Fire

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 17 (AP)—More than half the city's fire department today battled two pre-dawn fires which caused an estimated $112,- 000 damage and forced 50 persons to flee. No one was hurt.

Fire Chief William Davis said one blaze gutted a three-story warehouse at a loss of about $100,000. Occupants of 16 homes adjoining the structure fled at the height of the blaze fearing the fire might spread.

The building, located in Pittsburgh's Lawrenceville district, was recently bought by the American Textile company from the H. K. Porter company, locomotive builders. The structure was being remodeled.

While the first fire was raging, flames broke out in a tavern in another section of the city. Davis said firemen at that fire radioed for more help but the chief was unable to spare any men at the warehouse blaze.

Davis said the second fire did about $12,000 damage to the Lincoln tavern located in the east end district. Both fires were of unknown origin.

Over One Thousand Persons Join in Gaiety Of Hospital Auxiliary's Annual Charity Ball

By EDITH M. SCHAEFFER
(Mercury Society Editor)

Beautiful gowns on glamorous women—soft music and subdued lighting—the flash of color against the stark black and white of the male attire—gorgeous decorations under a sky of perfection.

All this added up to more than 1000 last night attending the annual Charity ball presented in Sunnybrook ballroom by the Senior Auxiliary of the Pottstown hospital.

It was a gala night. Laughter, greetings and sociability flowed freely. It would take a strange mind reader to know that beneath was a cause and the cause a hospital. A hospital and patients.

Last night was far removed from hospitals.

The entrance to Sunnybrook was as pretty a garden as any home owner ever dreamed of. Smilax grew beautifully from every wall. Real live tulips bloomed in the flower beds. Huge bunches of rhododendron relaxed in the perfect spot.

AND ON every table were the tulips. Thousands of them. In front of the orchestra, in a perfect band against the pleasing promise of Spring, grew many more hundreds.

It was the largest night on the social calendar for nearly all of Pottstown, who think of calendars. It had started earlier with rounds of parties, dinners, get-togethers and by the time 10 o'clock rolled around, everyone was in a jovial mood.

There had been the tremendous party thrown by the Sam Keisers' at Sunnybrook with more than 200 in attendance. There was the party at Dr. Harriet Stapp's, where everyone had so much difficulty parking, and the one at the J. Henry Schaeffer's.

Many of course attended that given by Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert, and that by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schwebel. There was a dinner party at the Harry L. Christmans and dozens of others.

THIS YEAR two large buffet tables at Sunnybrook kept the happy dancers delighted. Each was busy during the late hours of dancing.

In the receiving line were: Mr. Charles Schulz, president of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Schulz; Dr. C. Robert Ellicker, president of staff, and Mrs. Ellicker, who is chairman of the ball; Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Heindel, Mrs. Heindel is president of the Pottstown Senior auxiliary.

Putting at the buffet tables were: Mrs. S. Ernest Kulp, Mrs. A. C. Seawell, Mrs. David D. Detar, Mrs. Jack Wennersten, Mrs. William Manship, Mrs. George Bullard, Mrs. Claude Shelton, Mrs. C. W. Hancox, Mrs. Leroy Christman, Mrs. Charles Schulz and Mrs. John G. Ludwick.

Gowns were never more beautiful. For months women had planned exactly what they would wear to the gala event. Their selection seemed to be of the very best. Floating past were gorgeous gowns on women who had tried to do their best, and they did.

Mrs. Elwood B. Heindel, president of the auxiliary, selected a charming black taffeta with colorful highlights. Draped in pink it had a duobonnet maline around the off the shoulder neckline. She wore a corsage of pink camillias and rhinestone accessories.

In black too, Mrs. Claude Shelton was a picture of grace in sheer tulle. It draped to one side with a huge bow of gold outlined in black sequins. Her jewelry was of rhinestones.

Looking ever so lovely, Mrs. Stephen T. Lloyd floated past in a black strapless taffeta, the bodice entirely of lace. Adding just the right note of sophistication was a red feathered carnation trim. Mrs. Lloyd, president of the Junior auxiliary of the Pottstown hospital selected a diamond pendant as her only jewelry.

Despite the entertaining of more than 200 guests before the ball with a cocktail party, Mrs. Sam Keiser, co-chairman of the ball, arrived at Sunnybrook looking poised and lovely in a beige crepe dress highlighted by a bodice of gold beads. Quite the nicest part of her dress was the beaded panels and draped skirt in back.

BEAUTIFUL in its sophisticated simplicity was the Grecian styled black crepe chosen by Mrs. Stanley Gross. She wore long white gloves and strand of pearls against the strapless top.

Making an enchanting picture as she chatted gaily at her table was Mrs. Nathan Estreicher in a mauve pink boasting a full net skirt over which fell petals of satin. The strapless bodice was entirely beaded and set off by orchid corsages.

Quite striking was the shoulder drape that formed a wide V in the back of a gown worn by Mrs. Harry Charles. Of ice blue chiffon the voluminous skirt was accented pleated with huge bustle bow in the back. Her accessories were in silver.

Pretty Mrs. Richard J. Eppheimer selected a black taffeta off the shoulder gown. It was designed of full skirt with cascades of ruffles down the back of a skirt that hung effectively over a crinoline petticoat. Quite striking were the rhinestone necklace and earring set she wore with it.

A bride of not too many months, Mrs. Leon C. MacMullen Jr. selected a black tulle strapless gown delightfully set off by green trim. Her jewelry was in rhinestones.

Black was the choice, too, of Mrs.

Lewis J. Mack, who used a pink bustle at the back of a swirling full skirt. The strapless bodice was a perfect setting for pearls and matching earrings.

Mrs. Charles Schulz was beautiful in a black strapless taffeta becomingly designed with tile bodice at the top of which she wore pink flowers. Her jewelry was a rhinestone necklace and bracelet.

Looking especially lovely was Mrs. A. C. Seawell, local author, in a gown of royal blue crepe touched off by deeper blue sequins. The sophisticated skirt was draped to the side. With this Dorian original she wore a purple orchid and rhinestone jewelry.

White long kid gloves looked ever so striking with a black net off the shoulder gown on Mrs. Martin A. Feit. Necklace and earrings were of rhinestones and she wore a corsage of white roses.

Old gold accessories were quite effective on a bottle green satin worn by Mrs. Henry Lang. A strapless bodice topped a trained skirt. Rhinestone accessories highlighted the strapless black velvet worn by Mrs. Alice Lang. Most fascinating highlight was a back of taffeta in multicolor with butter fly trim, and train skirt.

Mrs. Milton Fritsche laughed and danced in a champagne net over taffeta with sequin trim and off the shoulder bodice. Accessories were in gold.

Mrs. Maitland McHenry, winner of the prize at the Philadelphia Flower show selected a raspberry tulle of full skirt.

A turquoise, orchid and cerise taffeta looked marvelous on tiny Mrs. H. Melvin Gingrich. The tightly fitted bodice topped an extremely full skirt. Her jewelry was of gold and rhinestones and she wore an orchid.

ADDING a brilliant bit of color to the ball was the red ballerina of nylon marquisette worn so enchantingly by Mrs. Benjamin H. Longaker. Against the tight bodice she wore a corsage of gardenias.

A black jet Juliet cap was quite lovely on Mrs. William Milton. She wore it with a black taffeta which featured a net trimming and bolero. Brilliant accessories were worn by Mrs. Ernest Snow with a white taffeta designed with off the shoulder bodice and bustle back.

Mrs. Harry McCoy selected black net over taffeta in strapless style with which she wore an eton jacket of the same material and brilliant accessories.

Especially fascinating was Mrs. Jack R. Wennersten in a strapless purple in taffeta. It was set off by magenta stole and sash. She wore amethysts and rhinestones and a wrist corsage of violets.

A CHARMING choice too was the American beauty satin worn by dark haired Mrs. Harold Binder. The off the shoulder bodice, with which she wore pearls, topped a very full skirt. She is one of the newer members of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Larry E. Orgill looked ever so stunning in a copper metallic design. Her necklace and earrings were of topaz.

Rhinestones and silver sandals were chosen by Mrs. W. A. Sanders to touch off an ink-blue strapless. Mrs. J. G. Ludwick selected royal blue with fully flared skirt and intricate neckline. Her jewelry was of rhinestones.

Pretty Mrs. Herbert Drumheller chose champagne velvet, its tightly fitted bodice outlined with sable. She wore rhinestones and brocaded sandals.

Quite stunning was the black French Howard Greer creation worn by Mrs. Leon Levitz. It carried with it the swift extreme air of Paris with its pencil slim skirt, severely draped at the sides. At the neckline she wore emeralds.

Pencil slim too was the glowing black velvet strapless that did so much for Mrs. George M. Longaker. Her only jewelry was a pearl choker.

RHINESTONES studded the black taffeta that looked ever so bewitching on Mrs. A. Mildred Heffner. The enormously full skirt fell over a crinoline petticoat and against her bare shoulders she wore rhinestone necklace and earrings.

Publicity chairman of the auxiliary, Mrs. Franklin Wertz, was charming in a white maline skirt topped with white net that was

Chatting, Priming, Eating and Tired Feet Are Part of Charity Ball Activities

Charity ball staged last night in Sunnybrook ballroom under the auspices of the Auxiliary of the Pottstown hospital was a gay glamorous affair with hundreds dancing from 10 until 2 o'clock. Prior to the big event in the enormous ballroom, informal parties, small and large dinners and get-togethers were held throughout the borough. Everywhere people were having fun.

In the top photo, Mrs. Harry L. Christman, vice president of the auxiliary, (right) stops to chat with Mrs. Fugman Binder. Taking time out for a bit of priming in the top center photo are Mrs. Herbert Drumheller (left), who applies a bit of powder, and Mrs. W. A. Sanders. Mrs. Drumheller is wearing a champagne velvet, banded at the strapless bodice by a rim of sable. Mrs. Sanders is wearing ink blue taffeta bearing one shoulder strap. Hours and hours of dancing and having a merry time brings tired feet. Mrs. Edward Jaycox rubs her aching toes as the clock strikes three. Her gown was of sea green satin, one strap of emeralds and the other of satin highlighted by large puff of matching material.

embroidered in brilliant rhinestones. In her hair she wore flowers to complete the ensemble.

A lovely dress of black taffeta, intricately woven at the off the shoulder neckline in soft pink, looked well on Mrs. C. W. Hancock. The skirt was gently flared and fell just to the sandal tips. Her corsage was of pink camellias.

Marquise in a pretty seafoam green looked especially nice on Mrs. Karl Schumacher. Embroidered at the bodice and in part of the skirt was soft white wool. Against the strapless top was glittering rhinestones.

TOPPING A full net skirt was a black net bodice entirely beaded in sequins that looked so well on Mrs. Harold Cadmus, past president of the auxiliary. Completing the picture were rhinestone jewels and a white orchid.

Creating quite a stir of interest, both among the feminine and masculine genders, was the mauve satin and gold brocade strapless with short draped bustle worn so strikingly by Mrs. Marmaduke Edwards. She touched it off with gold jewelry.

Ever so charming in her toast chiffon off-shoulder gown was Mrs. Carl F. Keiser. The full skirt was set off by a salmon colored rose at the waistline.

Heads turned her way when Mrs. C. B. Welch appeared in a lovely gown with black taffeta decollete top and striped, full taffeta skirt. She, too, chose rhinestone jewelry.

A bit of the Orient was injected into the spirit of the evening by Mrs. Jay F. Smith, who wore a mandarin jacket beautifully embroidered in gold and a black skirt.

A new comer in Pottstown, Mrs. Arnold Moore, looked pretty in a red velvet nipped-in jacket, high-lighted with gold brocade, over a slim black dinner dress.

Blonde Mrs. E. V. K. Jaycox, publicity chairman for the ball, was lovely in a pickie green slipper satin gown held in place by emerald straps. The full skirt fell over half hoops. With this she wore emerald earrings and bracelets.

Mrs. J. Elmer Seavers was stunning in a turquoise taffeta featuring a low cut drape bodice, full skirt edged onto the bodice and a side cascading drape. Her accessories were of gold and rhinestone.

An ivory satin strapless was the choice of Mrs. Herbert Houck. The extremely full skirt fell over a hooped skirt and was edged in deep tulle. The bodice was wasque effect against which she wore glimmering blue stones. Her sandals were of gold.

Very feminine Mrs. Harry L. Christian looked lovely in a beautiful brown taffeta strapless gown highlighted by a matching bolero and bouffant skirt, which featured a band of matching embroidered materials. Jade jewelry completed the picture.

AN INK BLACK crepe gown with a pencil skirt, bustle and flying panel was chosen by charming Mrs. John J. Sammons. Rhinestone jewelry set off the jewel neckline and rhinestone buckle at the waist. With this she wore long white gloves and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. C. Robert Elicker, chairman of the ball, was radiant in a gun metal portrait satin strapless gown with a bodice embroidered in seed pearls and brilliants. The full skirt was fluted from the hipline and she wore white gloves, a choker of white topaz and brilliants and matching bracelet.

Royal blue, combined with French blue, formed a striking gown featuring a draped skirt worn by Mrs. Elmer French. Completing the attire were blue rhinestone jewelry and white gloves.

Looking lovely in a black lace gown with a very wide skirt was Mrs. Edward L. Gruber. Rhinestone jewelry added the final touch.

That new shade of sun glow orange in a sheer crepe was worn so smartly by Mrs. Carson C. Potter, president of Century club. It was a draped model, one strap formed by a small one studded in rhinestones, while on the strapless side of the gown, the skirt boasted a side drape. With this she wore a large green cypridium orchid.

Mrs. J. Evans Thomas covered her pretty ivory bodice with a full length red coat.

To the long fitted bodice was attached a shirt that contained pencil slimmers in front to flare out a full swirl in the back. Edging the bodice was a cuff and two wide straps held it in place.

She wore rhinestone jewelry.

Rhinestone earrings and bracelet set off the beautiful dusty pink satin gown chosen by Miss Joyce Swavely. The gown was held up by very thin straps. A large bow was placed at the top of the low-cut bodice and the skirt was very full.

Miss Dorothy Kurtz was charming in black marquisette. A ruffle of white nylon, embroidered at the shoulder, formed an off-the-shoulder neckline. The black bodice was fitted, and the very full skirt featured a white nylon ruffle at the hipline. Her jewelry consisted of rhinestone necklace and earrings.

Twin hostesses, Misses Daisy and Pansy Goodyear, both chose pink gowns. Pansy's was pale pink taffeta covered with lace with an off-the-shoulder neckline framed by a ruffle. Over 30 tiny buttons paraded down the back of the bodice and into the huge skirt. She wore pearl earrings and necklace.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Humans Defeat Our Purposes

One of the most curious characteristics of human nature is the way we are constantly defeating our own purposes.

We may want something very much indeed; so much that it seems as though we could never bear it if we didn't get it. Yet the means we choose to try and achieve our objective are so often the ones that drive it further and further away from us.

For example, the world couldn't be fuller of girls who want one particular man. A girl madly in love would give up everything she had if by doing so she could make the man love her. She does her best to make herself irresistible to him in every way. Not infrequently, she even goes so far as to let him know she feels she can't live without him, with the mistaken idea that this will make him feel the same way.

But of all mistakes a girl in this situation can make, one of the very worst is to be so oversensitive that she is easily hurt and lets the man know it. Few things drive friends away faster than when they are constantly made to feel guilty over trifling things they may have done.

AN EXCELLENT ILLUSTRATION of just what I mean comes to me in a letter from a girl who is eager to make peace, if possible, between her girl friend and the young man with whom the girl has been going. She says the couple have been "going steady" for two years.

"Three months ago when her birthday came around," the letter tells me, "he did not give her a present as he had done for the previous two years. She was hurt and embarrassed, because she thought he was hinting that he wanted to break up. She did not say anything to him about the present, but refused to have any more dates with him. He asked her for dates three times afterwards and then stopped calling her."

"Now they purposely avoid each other, even though they live within a few blocks. Yet neither one dates anybody else. I know she loves him because she is very blue all the time. She wants to make up, but says she is waiting for him to do it. He just seems to be puzzled. I think he either forgot about her birthday or was just afraid that the fellows would tease him about the girl as they have been doing for a long time."

THIS GIRL THEN wants to know if I think it would be wrong for her to tell the fellow why the girl suddenly dropped him, adding that she knows if he went to see her.

Two Coaches Signed For Junior Baseball, Legion Announces

At the meeting of the Charles B. Yerger Post 471, American Legion, it was announced that two coaches have been signed for the Junior Legion baseball team for the coming season.

Three new members were admitted to the Legion at the meeting which was also attended by District Commander Elmer Miller, of Straoustown. Miller attended as part of his annual post inspection.

Harold Eide, who started working at 15 on a Norwegian seal boat, last night told the Executives and Foremen's club about the rugged life he has led since then.

The 183 members who attended the session in the auditorium of the YMCA stood to applaud the short, husky 60-year-old speaker at the end of his talk.

Most of the talk was about the 24 years of Eide's life spent as a prospector in Alaska.

After leaving school at 15, he worked on the sealer for several years until he met a group of American explorers. The meeting fired his desire to come to America. Arrived in California, he met a prospector who had come down from Alaska to spend his poke and that set him on his way North.

In all he made four trips to Alaska. After each excursion, he said, he spent all the gold he had panned—except the last trip. Instead of going back to California that time, as before, he came East and got married.

SPEAKING with a slight Norwegian accent, Eide recalled how he, at one time, had almost frozen to death in a blizzard. His hands and feet were frozen and his eyes were frozen open.

He saved himself by burrowing into a drift and spending the remainder of the storm-swept night massaging his hands and feet while the blizzard subsided.

Traveling the length and breadth of the sub-continent, he built many log cabins. Always he lived alone.

FREQUENTLY the only entertainment of an evening would be sitting in the cabin and watching the big black wolves, their fangs bared, pacing around the building. For years he lived on fish and the meat of wild animals. Fish and meat still constitute most of his diet, he said.

He and his son, a geology student, are going back to Alaska this summer, he said. But, as far as he's concerned, "it will just be for laughs."

The Rev. A. Burtis Hallock, pastor of First Presbyterian church, delivered the invocation prior to the lobster tail dinner.

developments to be put in at the contractor's or builder's expense.

But to help relieve the housing shortage, council passed an ordinance guaranteeing that the borough would pay for new streets if a development were 50 percent completed.

This ordinance may fall by the wayside before long. Both Democrats and Republicans on the highway committee have called for its abandonment, pointing out that the housing shortage here is no longer critical and that the borough cannot afford to continue building new streets indefinitely.

Already, one prominent councilman pointed out yesterday, the borough is committed to spend between $100,000 and $150,000 more on new streets.

"We'll have to do that work," he said.

Protests by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals caused Fritz to resign after being on the job one year. A shelter was set up outside the borough limits on a volunteer basis, but it was abandoned.

Since then, no genuine attempt has been made to keep stray dogs off Pottstown's streets.

Thomas M. Guerin, Retired Railroader, Is Fatally Stricken

Thomas M. Guerin, 76, of Oakview park, Pottstown Rd. 3, former railroad man and steel worker, died yesterday morning in the home of a friend, Jacob Bloch, North Wales.

A sudden heart attack was the cause of death. Mr. Guerin had been suffering from a heart attack for many years. A widower since 1944, he had been visiting Bloch for the past four months.

Mr. Guerin was born in South Amboy, N. J., a son of the late Thomas and Anna Guerin. He lived there until 1923, working as a brakeman on the New York Central railroad company.

In 1907, he married Florence P. Levengood, a native of Pottstown.

THE COUPLE and their two children, Thomas J., now of Tampa, Fla., and Charlotte, now wife of Raymond H. Rutter, 53 West Sixth street, moved to Pottstown in 1923.

Mr. Guerin worked for the now-defunct Shoemaker Bridge works, Stowe, until 1931 when the company went out of business.

By then quite deaf, Mr. Guerin retired.

Surviving, in addition to his two children, are a sister, Sister Mary Angeline, of the Sisters of St. Francis convent, Buffalo, N. Y., and two grandsons.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock from a funeral home at 404 High street. The Rev. John B. Frantz, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will officiate. Interment will be in Pottstown East End cemetery.

train to Reading.

Except for the two-hour lag in its arrival in the morning, there has been little change in the handling of light mail, as the Stowe postoffice still can hang bags on a crane-like metal arm from which it is picked up by trains that pass through Stowe without stopping.

And the lighter mail still can be thrown off at Stowe from moving trains.

NOT ONLY DOES Flickinger have to make special trips to Pottstown twice daily to get the heavy mail, but his entire staff of clerks and carriers have had to start and end their working day later.

The Reading company trains were cut off in a further attempt to save on coal stockpiles reduced sharply by the strike and short weeks.

When the collision happened, Taglieber was on his way to the Bethlehem Steel company plant, where he is a guard. Krause was going to work at Schulz Baking company.

Trojans Triumph — Greenies Win — Cubs Take 13th

DICK RICKETTS LEADS PHS TO 62-30 ROUT OF PHOENIX

By JOE MUCH
Pottstown High's combustibles exploded five days late last night to stampee a bewildered Phoenixville High unit, 62-30, in their final home wrestle of the season.

About 400 fans whooped it up while the Trojans were looking much more like champs than the bride's maids they apparently are destined to be in Section 3 play. West Chester, the bloody but unbowed leader of this helter-skelter party, was making merry, 61-35, in West Chester.

That means that, unless they are felled by Downingtown a week hence, the Warriors will shoulder into the District 1 playoffs.

The Trojans played heaps of basketball last night and the bulky majority of it was white hot. Among other things, they 1. MATCHED THEIR previous high point total that was stacked up against Bridgeport on tap-off night.

2. ASSURED THEMSELVES a better than 500 season as they won their tenth victory against eight defeats.

3. AMASSED A NATTY 23 for 70 shooting percentage.

4. WAFFLED BY 32 POINTS a team that frightened far out of them earlier in the year, and

5. MANAGED TO HUSTLE a basket for Dick Hatfield, toiling senior forward who had been horsecollared all year in his brief appearances.

Phoenixville had the first basket, but that hardly was save for the gashing it took later on. The Trojans had the V-sign up early. They led by 11-5 after a period and then worked the totals to 47-15 at the three-quarter mark, yielding only five notches per quarter to a free-shooting visitor.

Dick Ricketts, playing his most superb game of a superb season crammed in 18 points to lead all scorers, but that in only small measure hints at his brilliance.

The Splinter scraped the boards at both ends, played excellent defensive basketball and passed out assists like a Samaritan. It was a Ricketts handoff that brought Hatfield into the scoring party after the stocks had laid piled up seven near-misses.

Dick drove for the corner, leaped as if to shoot and at the final instant left-hooked a dizzying pass to Hatfield under the rim. The latter had only to lift the ball in, by far the simplest act of the transaction.

Two other Trojans nosed into double figures. Sam Green, in another fine performance, had a dozen points on four and four; and Louie Iezzi, a latecomer to the fray, holed 12. Lou sank his first four shots, missed two and then sank a fifth in the second quarter.

FOR PHOENIX, only Bill Callahan, fair-haired center, and sub Dick Carey had any notable success. Each scored seven points.

Callahan had the first Phantom fielder on a keyhole push but Ricketts scratched it with a pair of long one-handers. Green followed with a cripple deuce and two fouls and then Warren Propes tucked away a fast-breaking layup to make it Trojans, 10-2.

Callahan had his second and last dunker at that juncture on a corner push and Clayt Setzler dipped an ace before Propes matched it to make it 11-5 at the quarter.

Moments later it was 17-5 as Iezzi zipped in for two layups and Green sank a rafter-scraping pusher. Bill Kunch elbowed in for a Phantom sinker from far out, but the Trojans ran up 11 more points before Phoenix was to get in again.

Paul Duttenhofer, a defensive twinkler all night, had the first basket. Ricketts clustered three points and then dropped a long set toss after Iezzi had canned two more from close range.

Dan Gniass' foul shot interrupted the string and made it 28-8, but Green and Iezzi hit on fast breaks to make it 32-8. Gniass one-paw bulleye from the corner ended the half.

IT WAS DURING the 21-point second quarter that the Trojans unveiled what had been a dormant fast-breaking attack. Time and again they raced under to put Phoenix defenders in two on one and three on two holes. And more often than not, the Trojans cashed the opportunity.

STRINGS OF SEVEN, six and three gave the PHS firebrands a 47-15 three-quarter lead. Ricketts, het up most of them with his nine counter in that round.

Collegville's Cols—Surprise Package in Perk

Collegville High's fine young basketball team already has proven the surprise team of the Perkiomen-Schuylkill league. The defending Inter-County champions lost three regulars by graduation, but have been able to remain in one-two contention in the new loop.

Boyertown High's superior marksmanship at the foul tape enabled it to turn in a mild upset last night by defeating Collegville High, 49-43, at Boyertown.

The Bears converted 15 of 18 foul tries after only matching Collegville's 17 field flings. It was Boyertown's seventh Perkiomen league win against four setbacks, and Collegville's third loss in 11 loop encounters.

Collegville retained its tie for second place in the league as Royersford lost to East Greenville, but the loss virtually counted the Cols out of title contention.

The Cols, rushing downcourt from a pressing zone defense, ran up an early 14-10 lead in the first quarter. But when the Bears solved Col Center John Howard in the next heat, Boyertown came back to take over, 19-17 at halftime.

Howard, who finished with 16 points, best for the night, had seven markers in the first round.

The Bears, led by Laverne Gresh and Burlyn Hock, poured it on in the third frame to take a 32-24 three quarter lead. Collegville offered a spirited last quarter rally, but Boyertown stood at the foul tape and breezed in.

Houck, who cashed eight gift flings, was Boyertown's big gun with 14 markers. Gresh, a reserve forward, and Red Eddinger, a guard, had 13 apiece.

Ursinus Trounces Juniata 83-68 to Halt Losing Run A victory-starved Ursinus team broke a five-game losing streak last night when it blasted Juniata College, 83-68, on the Collegville court.

In gaining their third victory against ten setbacks this year, the Bruins ran up their lustiest point total in two seasons. Bill Forsyth, sharpshooting senior guard, led the basket bee with a dozen baskets, five fouls for 29 markers.

Juniata's mystic "HAZ" zone defence was no mystery to the Bears who led by 41-32 at halftime.

The losers' Holmes Ush, one of the state's top scorers, proved the only consistently accurate visitor. The lean forward pumped in 13 fielders and two fouls for 28 points.

ST. AGNES' QUINTEZ HANDS Spring City 67-51 Loss St. Agnes High of West Chester, loser in but two of 17 cage matches this season, heaped a 67-51 defeat on Spring City yesterday afternoon in West Chester.

Coach Gene Groff's Pirates stayed in the fall game for three quarters with an amazing exhibition of shooting, but the St. Agnes five had a 21-point last quarter to unload. It was the second time this season the Catholics have upended Spring City.

The hosts got off to a 15-6 edge in the first period, but for the next two, Spring City, with Paul Neborak and Don Stauffer showing the way, gave as much as it took.

At the three quarter mark, the West Chester team held a 46-38 edge and the issue was still in debate. Its 21-point closer put rout touches on the game. Paul Reilly, a forward, led the barrage.

Neborak finished with 15 points and Stauffer with 11 for Spring City, while Lee Sargent and Larry Davis divided another 17.

For St. Agnes, Reilly canned 21 markers on eight fielders and five fouls. Moran had 14.

SPRING CITY earned an even split when its jayvees took a 36-24 preliminary win over the St. Agnes yearlings. Pete Mosteller ripped in five field goals to lead the winners, who were in front by 14-8 at halftime.

UPPER MERION FALLS 52-28 AS DAVE RICKETTS GETS 19

Junior High uncorked a last half haymaker yesterday to flatten Upper Merion Junior High, 52-28, in a court skirmish on the UM boards.

It was the 13th victory in 14 starts for the Cubs, who are two victories away from the finest record in the school's history.

Game and aggressive. Upper Merion's Spartans, j.g., tagged along for a half and managed to make things warm for the Phenoms. But once Dave Ricketts, Fred Harvey, et al. became accustomed to foe surroundings, the whiff was on.

Ricketts, playing just slightly over half the affair, flipped in eight fielders and three fouls for 19 points, maintaining his per game average at that figure. Harvey had his hottest afternoon of the season in getting five and four for 14 markers.

Eight of slender Fred's points came in the second quarter and served to elbow off a spirited Upper Merion bid that netted ten points.

For the losers, the tiff marked the second time this year they have accepted the short end of the stick. Upper Merion has won six games.

BILL HENSLEY, Upper Merion's talented and battling center who canned ten points, had a six-point cluster in the first round that almost offset Cub work. Ricketts holed five markers on three gifties and a fielder. Harvey had a charity toss and Carl Stahl and Mike Krickzy a fielder each to give Pottstown a 10-8 quarter edge.

Both clubs accelerated in the next round, the Cubs getting 14 ringers and Upper Merion, ten. Hensley was blanked after having drawn three quick personal fouls.

Dick Clark took up the Spartan scoring lead to get two bulls-eyes from in close, while Hill and Petreicz added three-point clusters each.

For Pottstown, aside from Harvey's eight-notch burst, Rickie bloomed in two deuces and Harry Leh banged home his only basket of the day. At halftime, it was Pottstown, 26-18.

RICKETTS BEGAN his twinkle in the third round, when he rifled in four quick baskets. Harvey and Krickzy chipped in one apiece and Jim Price dunked a foul toss. Meanwhile, the hosts were cooling rapidly. Hensley had the only basket of the round as Upper Merion could hang up but six points.

The final quarter was a muddle of substitutions, Pottstown still enjoying all the best of the brawl. Subs Renninger, Price and Crutcher hit with pushers and then Renninger did it again. Ricketts and Krickzy added deuces to run the Cub last round total to 15.

Bob Moley's left-handed hooker from the corner accounted for the only Upper Merion basket of the heat. The hosts added four fouls.

NORCO

Gene Clemens and Norco exploded last night to bury Pennsburg High under a 77-48 basket avalanche at North Coventry.

Tiny Gene, flinging from far and near, holed 11 field goals and enough foot tosses to walk away with a pocket full of 25 points as the Cats enjoyed their most prolific point night of the year.

It was the fifth Perkiomen league win in 11 games for the fifth place Norcos, and Pennsburg's ninth loss against two victories.

Norco had every Pennsburg rifleman under thumb but burly Dick Buck, who stroled away with scoring honors after a dazzling 36-point burst. The outbreak gave Buck the league's scoring lead after he had slipped to fourth place in recent games.

In the early sessions, the Cats played two men on Buck to little avail, but once Clemens and his mates, principally Gary Buckwalter, put the fray on ice, they abandoned the tactic.

Buckwalter had his best night of the year, too, getting 21 markers on nine baskets and three foul flings.

Norco led by 13-10 after a comparatively placid first quarter, but turned on the steam to get out front by 32-15 at halftime.

The Cats rammed in 45 markers in the last two quarters, and though Pennsburg rose up to get 20 in the final frame, were never in trouble. Eight of 11 Norco players who entered the fray got in their ticks.

NORCO'S JAYVEES had a comparatively wild night, too, as they outscored the visitors 43-25 in the opener. Francis Wampler lofted in 18 points and Bob Swavely another ten to pace Norco.

Ike Williams Kayoes West

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Ike Williams chopped down Sonny Boy West tonight like a lightweight champ should handle a 20-year-old "kid," winning by a knockout in 43 seconds of the eighth round of a non-title bout at Madison Square Garden. Referee Pete Scalo stopped the bout without bothering to count after Williams fattened West with a jarring right hand.

Williams, heavy at 141, dropped the 138-pound Washington D. C. Negro for a five count late in the seventh. Sonny Boy was in bad shape at the bell.

Pressed into action as a 48-hour sub for ailing Bernard Dugan, ill with the flu, West was in over his head with the stiff-punching champ from Trenton, N. J. He simply didn't have the equipment or experience to deal with Ike.

The crowd didn't think enough of West's chances to make a price on the underdog. Whatever betting action there was centered on his chances of going the route.

A bobbing dancer with a flicking jab, West did himself proud in the first round and probably would have won the second if Scalo hadn't penalized him for a low blow.

After that it was all Williams, always stalking his man. It was just a question of time as he penetrated West's unorthodox style.

Marlene Bauer Wins Golf Title

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17 (AP)—Petite Marlene Bauer and her partner, Reggie Boardman Jr., of Palm Beach, today won the finals of the Everglades Club Mixed Foursomes golf tournament by beating sister Alice Bauer and Clarke Hardwick of Bel-Air, Calif., 3 and 2.

Thus Marlene, of Midland, Texas, who turned 16 years old yesterday, has taken the tournament victory edge from her sister. She has won four of seven finals in which she has competed with Alice.

It was a nip and tuck battle on the front side with the lead seeing-sawing back and forth. The winners, however, ended the nine with a one up advantage after carding a one over par 35 against Alice and Hardwick's 37.

Participating a turnaway throng for the Nature Boy's Reading "homecoming."

An all-star undercard will support the two-star main event. In the semi-feature, Marvin Mercer, of this city, will take on the clever Tony Cosenza, aggressive Brooklyn Italian. Tony Martindale, of Clifton, N. J., another local favorite, mingles with Polo Cordova, one of the few Spaniards in the grappling game.

And in the show opener at 8:45 blond Kenny Ackler, of California, will encounter rough, tough Miguel Torres, of Mexico.

West Pottsgrove and Schwenkville Highs locked up in a dandy basket-trading bee last night on the WP court and when the smoke had cleared, the Falcons were owners of a 54-46 triumph. It was their third in 11 Perkiomen league games.

Schwenkville put up an unusually sturdy battle before sinking to its tenth bout defeat against a single win and a hopeless cellar berth.

The visiting Bluebirds started fast, led 13-12 at the end of the first quarter and 26-19 at halftime. But Bill Wilkinson, WP's fine senior forward, spurred his team to a 29-point third quarter and the Falcons were in the van.

Wilkinson, who was coveting without the help of Center Gerald Diener, out with a fractured ankle, rammed home eight baskets and a foul try for a 17-point effort. He had 14-point help from Bob Trace.

Wilkinson had 11 points in the lusty quarter, while Trace added seven and Eddinger six over the same route.

Schwenkville in its early effort was led by Bobby Blatter, who had ten markers in the first half. Bob Shellenberger took up the job in the last quarter to flip in seven points as Schwenkville climbed from a 48-34 deficit to a 46-54 wind-up count.

Blatter finished with 14 markers. Shellenberger with 11. Cal Trovinger added another well-distributed ten.

WP WON THE Jayvee brawl, 34-18 as Gene Kulp and Paul Smith divided honors with eight points apiece. Billy Gaugler had ten for the losers.

Schuylkill River Towns Discuss Problems Of Financing New Sewage Disposal Plants

Seventeen representatives of Pottstown and four other Schuylkill river towns met in borough hall last night for a general discussion of the problem of financing new sewage disposal plants the State has ordered built.

The new plants have been ordered in keeping with the Schuylkill river clean-up program. Pottstown has been told to build its secondary sewage disposal plant, at an estimated cost of $600,000, by January, 1951.

Officials of Reading, Phoenixville, Royersford and Spring City met Pottstown borough officials.

After the meeting, Burgess William A. Griffith reported, "It was just a preliminary, general discussion. We will meet again here on March 17 and go into this a little more thoroughly."

THE BOROUGH officials are members of the Schuylkill Valley Municipalities association, which last met in 1946. It was decided tentatively last night to revive the association.

Although no motion asking State financial aid was passed last night, borough officials have said they may seek such help to build the plants.

Lewis Orders Bituminous Miners to End Strike in Effort to Head Off Court Fines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (P)—John L. Lewis late today ordered his soft coal miners to stop their outlawed nationwide strike in an obvious effort to head off possible contempt of court fines.

But the first reaction from the big eastern production areas raised doubts whether there would be all-out compliance. Most union officials withheld comment but one said the men "are still madder than hell," and another declared the order "won't do any good" without a new contract.

"Return to work without delay . . . for the protection and welfare of our union and all its members," the United Mine workers chieftain wired the 370,000 men who walked out Monday in defiance of a Federal court order forbidding a strike.

It was Lewis' second message advising the miners to obey the court, but this one was far more fervent. If they comply, it will restore production Monday morning just as Federal Judge Richmond B. Keach opens court to decide whether to turn his 10-day restraining order into a full-fledged 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction against a strike.

Lewis acted amid signs that the Government was readying action perhaps tomorrow unless Lewis and the soft coal operators reached a contract agreement in the dispute which threatened to cripple vital industries within a short time.

The day brought talk of a contempt of court petition against UMW—and perhaps an attempt to seize the mines.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN will get a full report tomorrow from his representatives at the negotiations. The talks were said to be making some headway.

The Lewis order, if obeyed, would send the men back to the pits the same day the 10-day anti-strike court order expires. Presumably it would be up to the Government to decide whether to continue to seek an 80-day injunction if the strike is off.

The present strike is an outgrowth of a series of scattered strikes which appeared throughout the industry in a "no contract, no work" wave of sentiment. Lewis himself had called the men out last Fall in one of his moves to curtail coal supplies during the protracted contract haggle. Throughout these stoppages President Truman had refused to invoke the Taft-Hartley act saying he found no emergency.

THERE WAS NO indication whether contempt of court action against the union for non-compliance with the court's brief nostrike order would be pressed. Lewis, who has maintained for the record an attempt to comply with the court order, told his men it was issued last Saturday that he had "no alternative" but to advise them to obey the court. The walk-out followed.

Today he told them to "cease forthwith all stoppages."

Together with his telegrams, Lewis gave out a statement he was sending to the Locals and members declaring the union leadership's intention to "comply in complete good faith with the anti-strike order."
